Border Radio doesn't hold back their passion for the very deep roots of American music -- they play it and write it and perform it with energy and reverence. They move with assurance from hard-driving bluegrass to lonesome folk to prairie swing, giving audiences of all ages a joyful and memorable experience.

Border Radio combines lead singer Kelly McCune's Okie roots and torch vocals with the California country-tinged sound of her band: Mike Stromberg on guitar, dobro, and resonator; John Lambdin on fiddle and mandolin; and Robert Staron on upright bass.

Border Radio is releasing their 5th CD, O, California, in December, 2011. Their previous 4 CDs have been widely reviewed and played on bluegrass, Americana, and folk stations across the country.

"Border Radio is entertaining. That is enough. Musical acts are supposed to stand on stage and sing and play and send people home with the warm assurance that they have gotten full measure for their time and money. Border Radio does all of that and then some." Bob Stane, Coffee Gallery Backstage

"with their talent, material and personality they just might start a new trend." - Music Connection

"Just letting you know that today I played Oklahoma Waltz. Again. It's the song with the 2nd biggest response I've had in the 2 years I've been doing the show... Oklahoma Waltz is the only one that people have written me about weeks after I've played it, and so on." Richard Gordon, "Black Diamond Show," WNHU

"Kelly McCune is now making a name for herself as one of the pre-eminent vocalists on the roots/Americana music scene with her band, Border Radio." - SGV Newspapers
